

attempt to bribe the "hoiense" of Indiana to contribute to Republican success?

AND WILL LEAD IS ALL STRAIGHT TO RUIN. From The New-York Times, Nov. 3, 1888.

The course of Republican management in the present campaign can hardly fall to be humiliating to all those who respect the traditions of the party. Let it succeed with such leaders as are in control its course will be confined in its evil ways and it will find it more difficult to find its way to ruin than it would until nothing but utter destruction through the uprising of an outraged people would save it.

HE UTTERED ONE LAST ENAIL OF HATE. From The New-York Times, Nov. 7, 1888.

But the canvass of the Republicans has been in honest one. It has been disgraceful.

AND LOOKS TO SEE HIS OPONENTS BLIGHTED. From The New-York Times, Nov. 8, 1888.

Quiz had to invent the story of an elaborate series of canvasses that had been made by him, that would have been immediately costly had they been made, to explain the extravagance of the campaign fund. That fund was used for the greater part in showing the people that the Republican party was miserably and shamelessly described in Treasurer Dudley's letter. Never in the history of American politics has there been so much lying and so much misrepresentation. The expenditures, protected monopolists reduced the wages of or discharged large numbers of their workmen to get rid of the competition of the free market and the farmers. These are the forces that have given this state of New-York and with it the Presidency to the Republican Party. What that party will do with the power it has seized or purchased remains to be seen.

ESPECIALLY THE IRISH. From The New-York Times, Nov. 8, 1888.

There are about 25,000 legal voters in this city who do not care a rush who is President so long as they can get a good dinner and a good bed.

the platform. These voters are mostly Irish and Scotch-Irish, and are in the majority in those places where they habitually "sell out" the Presidential candidates are Irishmen.

BUT THE HEEL OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE BRUISES THE OLD SNAKE'S HEAD.

From The New-York Times, Nov. 9, 1888.

The voters in the State of New York, not only elected Harrison and Murtin, President and Vice-President, but go before the country in March, 1889, with a secure majority in the Senate and a majority in the House of Representatives.

GENERAL HARRISON AT CHURCH.

THE HOME CHURCH CROWDED WITH PERSONS
ANXIOUS TO SEE THE PRESIDENT-ELECT.

Indianapolis, Nov. 11 (Special).—The home of General Harrison has greater interest than ever for Indianapolis people since his victory of last Tuesday. Thousands of people have walked out Delaware-st. today to view it, and during nearly the whole of the afternoon there was a great throng in the street in front of the house viewing it with curious interest.

This morning the President-elect, accompanied by his family, attended religious services as usual at the First Presbyterian church, in anticipation of his presence, the building was crowded with persons anxious to see him on the first Sunday after his election. As he passed down the aisle many of his friends and acquaintances bowed to him, but it was evident from his manner that he desired to receive no unusual attention. The sermon, by the Rev. Mr. Smith, of the church of God's presence, was everywhere, and his text was John xiv. 2. In his remarks there was no direct reference to the campaign of 1888.

an impression that the moral of his discourse had increase the victory of a righteous course. After the sermon General Harrison and his wife shook hands with those who were persistent in their desire for such recognition, and walked back home, having come down in a carriage.
